

Importance of taxa in explaining differences in ATP production between microbial communities

