

Importance of taxa in explaining differences in phosphatase production between microbial community samples

